

Radical politics in times of populism

The Peoples' Democratic Party (HDP), democracy and the politics of resilience in Turkey

PhD Dissertation 2021
Leor Uestebay

DEPARTMENT OF ANTHROPOLOGY
FACULTY OF SOCIAL SCIENCES
UNIVERSITY OF COPENHAGEN · DENMARK
PHD DISSERTATION 2021 · ISBN 978-87-7209-350-5

LEOR UESTEBAY

Radical politics in times of populism

The Peoples' Democratic Party (HDP), democracy and the politics of resilience in Turkey

Radical politics in times of populism:

The Peoples' Democratic Party (HDP), democracy and the politics of resilience
in Turkey

To my daughter Anila...

Radical politics in times of populism:

The Peoples' Democratic Party (HDP), democracy and the politics of resilience
in Turkey

BY LEOR UESTEBAY

PhD dissertation

Department of Anthropology
Faculty of Social Sciences
University of Copenhagen

Supervisor

Heiko Henkel, Associate Professor, Department of Anthropology, University of Copenhagen

Submitted on

May 15th, 2021

Cover

HDP Logo

PhD dissertation 2021 © Leor Uestebay

ISBN 978-87-7209-350-5 (Printed book)

ISBN 978-87-7209-420-5 (E-book)

Printed by SL grafik, Frederiksberg, Denmark (slgrafik.dk)

Acknowledgements

First of all, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to my supervisor, Heiko Henkel, who has convincingly guided and encouraged me during this long and difficult journey, and even when the road got tough. Without his persistent help and support for this project, the goal of this project would not have been realized. I also wish to show my gratitude to all my peers and senior colleagues in the Department of Anthropology for creating such a warm, inspiring, collegial and also an intellectually vibrant atmosphere. Some of them deserve an extra appreciation such as Helle Samulesen, who led my recruitment process and believed in my project; Henrik Vigh and Tine Gammeltoft, who have been always very considerate and supportive as Head of the PhD program; Stine Krøijer, who inspired me in our morning coffee sessions; and Nicole Doerr, who organized fascinating PhD courses in the Department of Sociology and got me involved in many other intriguing sessions. Moreover, I would like to recognize the invaluable assistance of the Administration, in particular Vicki Antosz, who has not only extensive competency, but also a unique supportive attitude. I also wish to thank Danish Institute in Damascus that provided me with financial support for my fieldtrips not only to Turkey but to Europe and overseas.

I would also like to thank my friends and family for their encouragement and for bearing with my chronic distractedness and absences. It is whole-heartedly appreciated. Special thanks go to Camilla Ravnbøl, and Frida Gregersen and their families, who hosted me upon my short stays in Copenhagen. You are more than colleagues to me. I owe tremendous thanks to my former partner who patiently supported me despite my frequent absence, and of course, my mother who travelled to Germany and took care of my daughter during my fieldwork in Turkey. Last but not least, I wish to acknowledge the extensive and invaluable support of all my interlocutors. This thesis could not be accomplished without you.

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
The HDP and the radical politics of the present	8
Imperfect solidarity: the HDP and the opposition	14
Histories of political modernity and contentious politics in Turkey	15
Routes of Kurdish political agency	18
Revisiting radical politics	22
Radical politics in an authoritarian context	26
A politics of resilience: maintain or transform?	29
Methodology	33
The field	35
Organization of the dissertation	38
 Article 1: Imperfect self, contingent solidarity: configurations of collectivity in diversity among HDP activists	 40
Introduction	40
Solidarity and diversity	44
‘The political’ between ethnicity and revolution	46
New millennium, new complexities	54
Embodying solidarity in diversity	60
Conclusion	74
 Article 2: Resilience or revolution? Radical democracy and political activism under stress	 76
Introduction	76
Radical politics and resilience	79
Democracy in geographies of oppression	84
‘Newroz’: from myth-making to Realpolitik	89
Revolution and electoral democracy	93
May Day and the triumph of contingency	98
Conclusion	103
 Article 3: Embodying utopia in dystopia: activism and the politics of anxious hope	 105
Introduction	105
Hope and utopia in the age of dystopias	108
Cultivating democracy in Turkey	112
Hope in motion	117

A politics of anxious hope	121
Conclusion	125
Conclusion	127
Resilience and radical politics in times of populism	129
Making sense of democracy and the political	132
Notes	134
References	137
Executive Summary	155